

11/22/2017

I strongly support maintaining net neutrality in its current state. I request the FCC not to remove the guidelines put in place in 2015 to protect consumers and small businesses. The internet isn't broken – let's not break it, particularly just to give big business one more advantage over the people of this country, and a scary one at that, freedom of access to information